

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

While, with a full purse and broad acres, the home-bred English squire is disposed to undervalue the high-sounding titles of the German Count, the French Vicomte, or the Italian Marchese, he is, at the same time, in ignorance of his own proper station, too ready to admit that, in point of birth and rank, they stand above him. Thus with "insular pride" and "insular blindness," he, at once, undervalues and overvalues those with whom he is brought into contact in continental circles; and not knowing his own right place, he is a puzzle to the nobility of the country where he happens to sojourn, who do not know what to make of the hughty pretensions of this man, who, after all, frankly proclaims himself to be a commoner, not a nobleman, and consequently to belong to what they call the "Bourgeoisie," the "Roture."

The fact is, that Englishmen, during the last few centuries, have been, from various causes, political, religious, and social, very much wrapped up in insular isolation, and have lost the place which was once assigned to them in the great European family. And the descendants of great and noble knights, who gained honour in French and German tournaments, and whose offshoots were received with open arms into the most exclusive of the orders of religious chivalry, have lost their footing among the aristocracy of the continent, and would, with ignorant conscientiousness, repudiate any claim to be reckoned as noble.

Many causes have contributed to make Englishmen forgetful of their proper position. The law of primogeniture has kept titles and great estates in the hands of a few; and has established a barrier of separation between the eldest branch of noble families and their cadets. While the Duke, Earl, or Baron has handed down his coronet, his rank and his political privileges, along with his wealth, from generation to generation in one favoured line, the younger branches have gradually descended to the common level; and excepting the preservation of a tradition that they are of an ancient and good family, they differ in nothing from the multitudes around them. In this country, high-sounding titles and great political privileges, being in the hands of a few, the fortunate holders of these advantages have become surrounded with a peculiar halo, and have gradually appropriated to themselves, and have received from others, the exclusive distinction of nobility. So that it would probably greatly astonish the lord paramount of an English county to be told by one of his neighbouring squires, or even by a remote cadet of his own family, that they were quite as noble as himself; that he might, indeed, be their superior in rank and in illustration, but that his nobility was not more real or ancient than their own.

Another cause, it must freely be admitted even by the most strenuous asserters of the nobility of the British Gentry, has tended greatly to complicate their position; and that is the tendency which has existed in England, from time immemorial, on the part of men who have risen from humble rank to wealth, to consolidate that wealth on landed possessions, and to establish themselves among the territorial aristocracy of the country.

This desire of acquiring an estate and founding a family does not exist in the same degree among those who have risen to wealth in the countries of the continent. Exceptions do, indeed, occur; but they are mere exceptions. A rich Frankfort banker, or Hamburg merchant, does not in general invest his gains in land. He may live luxuriously, and gratify his tastes with houses, gardens, full cellars, and paintings; but his investments are chiefly in personal property, which at his death can be easily and equally divided among his children. He seldom thinks of acquiring land; and still less of endeavouring to obtain nobility and found a Majorat in favour of his eldest son. And unless he became noble and executed an entail, or created a Majorat, the purchase of land would be, in his case, a small satisfaction; because at his death it would have to be sold, in order to be equally divided among his children. Now, the conduct of the rich merchant of London, or Manchester, or Glasgow is almost invariably the very opposite of this. As soon as he has realised a good fortune by trade, it is his ambition to become a country gentleman, and to endeavour to find a place among some county aristocracy. And as, in this country, the ancient gentry and the remote cadets of the highest peers' families have gradually ceased to call themselves noble, our wealthy merchant has a less difficult task to accomplish than one of the same class would have in Germany or Italy. His efforts to obtain a footing are generally successful, and the next generation sees the son or grandson of the Liverpool or Manchester trader, associated with, and even allied to, the most ancient houses, which were distinguished in the wars of the Roses or of the Barons. There is scarcely a peer, however exalted his station may be, who has not some degree of family connection with very new men; and not a few of the most influential states-

BALGUY OF DUFFIELD.

BALGUY, JOHN, Esq. of Duffield, co. Derby, J.P., barrister at law, b. 16 Dec. 1821; m. April, 1858, Harriet Anne, dau. of James William Ogle, Esq. of Oakwood, Beckenham, Kent, and has issue,

I. JOHN HENRY, b. 1859.

Lineage.—The Balguys have been seated in Derbyshire since the time of Edward I., Thomas de Balgi, one of their ancestors, having married in that reign the heiress of the Aston family, and thus acquired the estate of Aston in the Peak, as well as considerable property in Lancashire and Cheshire. The estate of Darwent Hall, sold by the late John Balguy, Esq., had been held by the family for several hundred years, and was the remnant of large possessions in the High Peak, formerly belonging to them. JOHN BALGUY, who served the office of high-sheriff for Derbyshire three or four years after the Restoration, is described as of Darwent Hall. In 1594, Thomas Balguy was member for Stamford, in Lincolnshire, and recorder of that borough. To the latter office John Balguy was elected in 1628, and his son, of the same name, in 1649. The late representative of the family,

BANKES OF CORFE CASTLE.

BANKES, HENRY-JOHN-PERCIVAL, Esq. of Kingston Lacy, co. Dorset, b. 13 Feb. 1850.

Lineage.—The house of Bankes, which first settled in Dorsetshire temp. JAMES I., and which has since held a very high position amongst the ancient landed families of that county, derived descent from an ancestry of worth and respectability, who were, for many generations, established in a station of consideration in the old town of Keswick, in Cumberland. Among the title-deeds and papers now in the muniment room at Kingston Lacy, is the original grant from Henry VI., A.D. 1440, to the Bankes's of land at Borekille, near Keswick, together with the black lead mine there, which is still possessed by the family. There are also subsequent deeds from Edward IV. and James I. confirming this grant. By reference to the registers of Keswick, the Bankes's may be traced back, through a tolerably long line of progenitors, holding the rank of gentry, down to

SIR JOHN BANKES (the son of John Bankes, Esq. by Jane Malton, his wife, and grandson of Ralph Bankes, Esq. by Anne Hawel, his wife), who was constituted Lord Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas in 1640. He took part in the celebrated cause instituted in the Exchequer against the patriot HAMPTON, for his refusal to pay the arbitrary imposition of ship-money. By his wife Mary, (the gallant defender of Corfe Castle for King CHARLES), only

dau. of Robert Hawtrey, Esq. of Risolip, Sir John Bankes left at his decease in 1644, a son and successor,

SIR RALPH BANKES, of Corfe Castle, Knt., who m. Mary, only dau. and heir of John Bruen, Esq. of Athelhampton, and had, with a dau. Mary, who d. unm., an only son, JOHN, his heir. Sir Ralph dying about the year 1679, was s. by his son,

JOHN BANKES, Esq. of Kingston Hall, M.P. for Corfe Castle, who m. Margaret, dau. of Sir Henry Parker, by whom (who m. 2ndly, Thomas Lewis, Esq. of London), he had, with other children, who died issueless, two sons, JOHN and HENRY, and a dau. Mary, m. to Sir Thomas Penson, Bart. He d. in 1714, and was s. by his elder son,

JOHN BANKES, Esq. of Kingston Hall, M.P., who dying issueless in 1772, was s. by his brother,

HENRY BANKES, Esq. of Kingston Hall, barrister-at-law, king's counsel, M.P. for Corfe Castle, and one of the commissioners of the customs. He m. 1st, Eleanor, dau. of Richard Symonds, Esq. of London, and 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of the Right Rev. John Wynne, D.D., Bishop of Bath and Wells, and co-heir of her brother, the Right Hon. Sir W. Wynne, Knt., chief judge of the Prerogative Court and dean of the Arches. By the first lady, he had no issue. By the second he had a son, HENRY, his heir, and a dau. Anne. Mr. Bankes d. in 1776, and was s. by his only surviving son, Seat—Winstanley Hall, near Wigan.

* The family of Holme has been seated in Lancashire, in different branches, from a period shortly subsequent to the Norman conquest. The surname, which was originally and properly spelt Hulme, is local, and derived from the manor of that name between Trafford and Manchester, formerly possessed by the family.

In the third volume of Hollinshed's Chronicle, among the Norman gentlemen attending WILLIAM the Conqueror, is mentioned the "Seigneur de Hulme," but whether he was the father of Ranulph or Randulphus, who was possessed of Hulme about the end of the 11th century, is not clearly ascertained.

BARRY OF LEMLARA.

BARRY, GARRET-STANDISH, Esq. of Lemlara, co. Cork, J.P. and D.L., s. his father, Standish Barry, Esq. in April, 1823. Mr. Barry was the first catholic member of parliament elected by the county of Cork after the Act of Emancipation in 1829.

Lineage.—This branch of the once potent name of BARRY, so influential under the successive Lords Barry, the Viscounts Buttevant, and the Earls of Barrymore,* has enjoyed large possessions in the co. of Cork ever since the first incursion of the Anglo-Normans in the time of HENRY II. Many of their green acres have indeed fallen to the spoiler—and of the old Catholic families, which may not similarly complain?—in the confiscations, political and religious, that so frequently and so ruthlessly visited the land of their adoption, from the accession of the house of TUDOR to the extinction of the house of STUART. Those that remain, however, confer on the proprietor, by their title-deeds, an inheritance of six hundred years at least, transmitted through a continuous and unbroken succession of two and twenty generations.

GARRETT BARRY, who resided at Leamlary (then so written), in the co. of Cork, temp. RICHARD II. m. the dau. of Poer, of Shangarry, allied to the Lords Le Poer, and dying about the year 1390, was s. by his son,

JOHN BARRY, who m. the dau. of O'Nunane, of Castle-Island, a very ancient Irish name, and had a son and heir,

GARRETT BARRY, father, by his wife, Miss White, of Leamlilly, of

DAVID BARRY, of Leamlary, who m. a dau. of Barrett, of Ballincolly, and had a son,

JAMES BARRY, who m. Catherine Roche, of the noble house of Fermoy, and was s. by his son,

GARRETT BARRY, of Leamlary, whose wife was Ellen McCartie, of Tuadrommun. His son,

JOHN BARRY, of Leamlary, distinguished by the epithet of Leis Air, or the stout, m. Isabel Nagle, of Moncanimie, and had a son, GARRETT, his heir. By a grant from CHARLES I. in the 12th year of his reign (1636), the family estates were confirmed to this proprietor. John Barry was s. by his son,

GARRETT BARRY, Esq. of Leamlary, or Leamlara, who obtained from CHARLES II. a confirmatory grant of Leamlary. He m. Ellen, dau. of Daniel Duff O'Cahill, by Ellen, his wife, dau. of M'Cartie Reagh. He was s. at his decease by his son,

DAVID BARRY, Esq. of Leamlara, who m. Catherine, dau. of Standish Grady, Esq. of Elton, in the co. of Limerick, and was father of

STANDISH BARRY, Esq. of Leamlara, who m. in 1708, ELIZABETH, dau. of Thady Quin, Esq. of Adare, in the co. of Limerick, and had issue, three sons, DAVID, GARRET, and JOHN, who d. unm., and six daus., Catherine, m. to Joseph Anthony, Esq.; Elizabeth, wife of Patrick Lacy, Esq. of Mallow, co. Limerick, whose dau. was mother of Sir de Lacy Evans, K.C.B.; Margaret, m. to John Stack, Esq.; Mary, Eleanor, and Anne, wife of Simon Haly, Esq. of Ballyhaly. The eldest son,

DAVID BARRY, Esq. of Leamlara, dying without issue, was s. by his brother,

GARRETT BARRY, Esq. of Leamlara, who m. Mary-Anne Hunney, dau. of the Baron of Galtrim, and dying in 1756, left, with two daus., Anne, wife of Timothy Deasy, Esq.; and Eleanor, wife of Hatton Conron, Esq., a son,

BEVERLEY OF BEVERLEY.

BEVERLEY, ROBERT-MACKENZIE, Esq. of Beverley, co. York, J.P. and D.L.

Lineage.—This ancient family can be traced amongst the corporation records of the town of Beverley to the time of King JOHN. In the reign of HENRY VIII. the Beverleys had increased in consideration, and one of them was a commissioner appointed by the king to inquire into the northern monasteries. They received some grants of church property, and became soon after divided into two branches, one settled in Selby, the other at Beverley. In the reign of CHARLES I., John Beverley, of Beverley, adhered to the cause of royalty; and at the Restoration, his name appears on the list of those on whom it was intended to confer the order of the Royal Oak.

ROBERT BEVERLEY, Esq. of Beverley, the representative of the family, sold his property in Beverley to the Pennymann family, and retired, with a large fortune, to Pennsylvania, in America, of which he was appointed Governor, and where he purchased very extensive estates. He erected a large mansion, now occupied by his grandson, Robert Beverley, Esq., and called the place Blandford. His only son,

ROBERT BEVERLEY, Esq.,* was sent to England to be educated at the Beverley grammar-school. He m. Miss Bland, of Yorkshire descent, and had a large family, of which the eldest,

WILLIAM BEVERLEY, Esq. of Beverley, East Riding of Yorkshire, J.P. and D.L., was appointed in 1832, vice-lieut. by the earl of Carlisle. He m. about the year 1795, Mary dau. and co-heir (with her sister, Anna-Margaretta, wife of Lord Grantley) of Jonathan Midgley, Esq. of Beverley, a gentleman of large landed estate, and had issue, BRADSHAIGH.

BRADSHAIGH, WILLIAM ROGER HARDEN, Esq. of Knapnagorran, co. Tipperary.

Lineage.—The manor of Bradshaw, near Bolton-le-Moors, co. Lancaster, has given name to a family which, whether we consider its extreme antiquity, its eminence, or the nobility of its descent, is equalled by but few of the equestrian order in the kingdom. The progenitor of this house at the time of the introduction of surnames, assumed the name of the estate where his ancestors were seated before the Norman Conquest; and, in accordance with the usage of the period, was styled "de Bradshaw." The pedigree begins with UCHTRAD, a great Saxon Thane, who held Salford, with several other manors of King EDWARD the Confessor, in capite, as appears from Domesday Book. The vellum pedigree of 1641, drawn out for the Derbyshire branch, sets forth that "the name of Bradshaw is now an ancient one in this country, but came in with the Saxons;" and it thus describes the first of the race "from whom all the Bradshaws in England are descended. He stood out agaynst the Conqueroure and bore arms agaynst him, yett upon his submission to the said Duke of Normandy, being then Kyng of England, itt pleased the sayd Conqueroure to restore him to lyfe and lyving, judging hym to be a man of a good wytt and a noble spyritte, and a bould courage, not easily daunted, but bould and courageous, in the face of his enemies." From this distinguished patriarch derived the famous Houses of Bradshaw of Bradshaw, of Bradshaw of Marple (the family of the President Bradshaw), and of Bradshaigh of the Haigh, co. Lancaster.

JAMES BRADSHAIGH, Esq. of Haigh (son and heir of Roger Bradshaigh of Haigh) was father, by Jane, his wife, only dau. and heir of Thomas Houghton, of Houghton Tower, of

SIR ROGER BRADSHAIGH, lord of the manor of Haigh, who m. shortly before 1596, Anne, dau. of Christopher Anderton, Esq. of Lostock, co. Lancaster, and had a large family; the 7th son,

ROGER BRADSHAIGH, Esq. of Wigan, was b. between the years 1600 and 1612, served as a soldier of fortune in the Dutch and French services with much distinction; and is briefly mentioned in the Haigh pedigree as "Roger who followed the War." He m. 1640, Elizabeth, dau. of John Bradshaw, of Bradshaw, and had issue. The eldest son,

ROBERT BRADSHAW, who went to Ireland with his mother and brother in the year 1662, soon acquired a considerable landed interest in that part of the county of Limerick adjoining the village of Cullen, and in and about the village of Cappowhite, co. Tipperary, which districts were long designated by the native Irish as "Bradshaigh's country." He d. in 1718, leaving by Catherine, his wife, five sons, viz.,

I. JOHN, his heir.

II. Robert, of Ballyvelode House, Kilnagoneen and Cullen, co. Limerick, b. 7 Dec. 1655, who left by Elizabeth, his wife, several sons. His representative is LETITIA BRADSHAW, sole heiress of the Ballyvelode branch, is a nun in St. Vincent De Paul's Convent, Dublin.

CAMERON OF LOCHIEL.

CAMERON, DONALD, Esq. of Lochiel, co. Inverness; b. 5 April, 1835; s. his father 4 Jan. 1859.

Lineage.—The surname of Cameron is of great antiquity in Scotland, and in ancient times was variously written, viz., Cameron, Cambron, Cambrun. "The Camrons have a tradition among them that they are descended of a younger son of the royal family of Scotland who assisted at the restoration of King FERDINAND; but it is more probable that they are of the same stock as the ancient Scots or Caledonians that first inhabited the country."

"The earliest possession of the Camerons was that of Skene's Highlanders of Scotland—"was that extending to the east of the loch and river, and was held by them of the Lord of the Isles, on the west side of that water, had the Lord of the Isles to the founder of the clan, whose descendants it was inhabited. The Camerons consisted of three septa, the MacMartins of Letterfinlay; the Camerons of Strone; and Sliochd Shoir: Glenciva."

"The Camerons having, along with Alexander, Lord of the Isles, deserted Alexander, Lord of the Isles, and joined Donald Balloch in his rebellion, after his victory at the battle of Largs, he put himself upon the Camerons. The clan was unable to stand, and was obliged to fly into the mountains, where they took refuge among the mountain country." "The Camerons had been in captivity had been in the dominions."

DONALD DUNN, who raised the clan, they had fallen, and to have had former descendants.

SIR JOHN EWEEN, who eclipsed the age of Ewen, was the founder of the clan.

* His granddaughter and sole heir, m. to Francis Theophilus, Earl of Huntingdon.

† Nephew of Gen. Sir Patrick Grant, K.C.B. Commander-in-Chief, Madras.

Etymology.—The family of Caton, or as sometimes found in old records varied in the following forms, de Caton, Catton, Catun, and Katon, stated to be of Saxon origin, came originally from the co. Norfolk, and the name is presumed to be derived from the manor of Catton, near Norwich, in Domesday book spelt Catun. The earliest record of the name in the co. appears 5th HENRY III, 1230-1, when RICHARD DE CATUN, was seized of lands in Strameshaw. In 1248, Isaac de Caton was high-bailiff or chief magistrate of Norwich; and we find Robert de Caton, Henry de Caton, and John de Caton, holding the like offices in succession to the year 1265.

In 1273, Sylvester Catun, held lands in the manor of Walsingham, and also in the hundred of North Grenshaw, Norfolk: in 1298, Robert Catun, burgess, was returned for Orford, parliament at York, 25 May, 26th EDWARD I; and in 1306, Robert Caton, sen., burgess, was also returned for Orford. In 1320, John de Caton, held in free warren, Bristedon, Berlingham, and Tofte, in Norfolk, 6th HENRY IV. The celebrated articles of the Percy, the Earl of Douglas, and others, were sent and submitted to the King by Thomas Caton and Thomas Salvain, both of whom are stated to have been esquires to King HENRY.

In 1420, Sir John Caton was rector of St. John's church, Norwich.

John Caton, was buried in the north aisle of St. Margaret's church, Catton, by Norwich, circa 1448; and also another John Caton, and Margaret, his wife, in 1458. A stone in the said aisle, bore the following inscription: "Orate pro animabus, Johs. Katon, sen., et Margarete uxoris ej."

Many other instances of the name in the co. of Norfolk, might be adduced.

The present family derive immediately from THOMAS CATON, seized of lands at Wendling, Norfolk, and at Denham, Suffolk; the former property was purchased, 2nd EDWARD VI, 1548; he left issue, by Elizabeth, his wife,

I. THOMAS, of Brumstead, co. Norfolk.

I. Frances.

II. Henrietta Isabella.

Mr. Pine-Coffin m. 2ndly, Oct. 1848, Charlotte, dau. of the late Samuel Chandler, Esq. of Bath.

Lineage.—The Coffins possessed the manor of Alwington, in which parish Portledge is situated, as early as the time of WILLIAM the Conqueror.

The authorities who have written respecting the co. of Devon make honourable mention of SIR ELIAS COFFIN, Knt. of Clist and Ingarby, in the days of King JOHN; of SIR RICHARD COFFIN, of Alwington, temp. HENRY II.; of SIR JEFFREY COFFIN, of Coombe Coffin, under HENRY III.; and of other knights, descendants of these, during successive reigns, till the time of HENRY VIII., when we find SIR WILLIAM COFFIN sheriff of Devonshire, and, being highly preferred at court, master of the horse at the coronation of Anne Boleyn; a gentleman of the privy chamber; and, afterwards, one of the eighteen assistants of King HENRY VIII., at the tournament of Guisnes, in France, A.D. 1519. This Sir William Coffin was also high-steward of the manor and liberties of Stanton, co. Hertford. At his death, he humbly bequeathed to his great master, HENRY VIII., with whom he was in especial grace and favour, all his hawks, his best horses, and a cart; and, leaving no issue, he conveyed the manor of East Higgington, in the parish of Beeryn Arbor, with all his other estates in the co. of Devon, to his eldest brother's son, RICHARD COFFIN, Esq. of Portledge. The last male descendant,

RICHARD COFFIN, Esq. of Portledge, d. unm. 9 Dec. 1766, aged 84, and willed his estates to nephews, Robert Bennett, and his elder brother Richard Bennett, sons of his sister, Honour Bennet, with remainder to his great-nephew, John Pine, Esq. of East Downe, and heirs male. Eventually, the estate went, at the death of Richard Bennett Coffin, according to the entail, to

THE REV. JOHN PINE,* of East Down (son and heir of John Pine, Esq., and grandson of Edward Pine, Esq. of East Down, by Dorothy, his wife, dau. of Richard Coffin, of Portledge). He was b. in 1736, and assumed, in 1797, by royal license, the additional surname and arms of COFFIN. He m. 3 Dec. 1765, Grace, dau. of James Rowe, Esq. of Alverdiscott, in Devon, and had issue, Ford and Lyons.

Maternally the present William-Henry Ford Cogan, Esq., M.P., derives descent from two ancient families, the Fords, of Corry, co. Leitrim, and the Lyons, of Lyonstown, co. Roscommon. The Fords were an old Irish race, the Mac Consamhas or Mac Consavasa, chiefs of the territory of Muinter Kenny, in Leitrim, frequently mentioned in the Irish annals, and referred to by the "Four Masters" "Their name," says Dr. O'Donovan, "is supposed by the peasantry to be compounded of three Irish words, signifying 'the son of the Ford,' and from this false assumption it is now anglicised 'Ford.' Certain it is, that the sept of Mac Consavasa was sprung from Falvan, 2nd son of Macmorda, Prince of Breffney, ancestor of the O'Reillys in 1642.

GARRET FORD, chief of Muinter Kenny, was seized by Sir Frederick Hamilton, his wife slain, and his stronghold at Corry (a promontory jutting into Lough Shesham) seized and burnt. Several members of his family were put to the sword, and Garret himself was carried off to Manor Hamilton, and there hanged. Garret's son,

FRANK FORD, b. 1630; m. Miss McGouran, and had two sons, HUGH and GARRET. The former had a son, Charles, who d. s. p.; the latter, b. 1669, m. Miss Mary Reynolds, and had THADDEUS and Frank, and two daus. The elder son,

- II. Julia-Caroline, twin with her sister, m. 3 Aug. 1857, to Edward Haworth, Esq., late capt. 17th lancs.

Lineage.—"Workington (says Camden) is now the seat of the ancient knightly family of the CURWEN, descended from Gospatric, Earl of Northumberland, who took that name by covenant from Culwen, a family of Galloway, the heir whereof they had married. They have a stately castellike seat; and from this family (howbeit vanity) I myself am descended by the mother's side." To GOSPATRIC, son of Orme, and great-grandson of Eirik, 2nd feudal Lord of Kendal, Alan, 2nd Lord of Airedale, his cousin-german, gave High Ireby, which remained vested in a younger branch of the Curwens, which terminated in female heirs. This Gospatric was the first of the family who was Lord of Workington, having exchanged with his cousin, William de Lancaster, the lordship of Middleton, in Westmoreland, for the lands of Lamplugh and Workington, in Cumberland. Gospatric had (with four younger sons, Gilbert, Adam, Orme, and Alexander) his successor, THOMAS, called after the fashion of those times, "an d Gospetric." To this Thomas, one Rowland, son of Ughtred, son of Fergus, gave the lordship of Curwen, in Galloway. He d. 7 Dec. 1152. To his 2nd son, Patric, he had given, while his eldest son was living, the lordship of Culwen, in Galloway, and the said Patric assuming his surname therefrom, became

PATRIC DE CULWEN, ancestor of the great family of CURWEN.

SIR CHRISTOPHER DE CULWEN, of Workington, like his father, represented his native county in several parliaments. He was sheriff of the same shire in the 2nd and 13th of HENRY VI. by the name of CULWEN, and in the 6th of the same reign by that of CURWEN, to which latter cognomen the family has ever since adhered. Sir Christopher's great-great-grandson,

SIR HENRY CURWEN, of Workington, had the honour of affording an asylum in his mansion-house to the Queen of Scotland, MARY STUART, when that princess sought the protection of England. Sir Henry, who represented Cumberland in parliament, in the 6th of EDWARD VI. and 1st ELIZABETH, was s. at his decease, in the 35th of the latter reign, by his eldest son,

SIR NICHOLAS CURWEN, of Workington, M.P. for Cumberland, father of

SIR HENRY CURWEN, of Workington, M.P. for Cumberland in the 18th of JAMES I. His eldest son,

SIR PATRIC CURWEN, of Workington, M.P. for Cumberland, was created a baronet in 1626, but d. issueless in 1664, when the title became extinct, while the estates devolved upon his brother,

THOMAS CURWEN, Esq. of Workington, at whose decease, vers., 25th CHARLES II., the estates passed to his half-brother,

ELDERED CURWEN, Esq. of Workington, who d. the next year, and was s. by his son,

HENRY CURWEN, Esq. of Workington. He dying without issue, his branch of the family expired, when the estates and representation reverted to his cousin (the great-grandson of Sir Henry Curwen (Mary Stuart's host) by his 2nd wife, Jane Crosby),

ELDERED CURWEN, Esq., who thus became of Workington. Mr. Curwen served the office of sheriff for Cumberland in the 3rd of GEORGE II., and represented Cockermouth in parliament. He d. in the 18th year of the same reign, and was s. by his son,

HENRY CURWEN, Esq. of Workington, M.P. for Carlisle in 1762, and for Cumberland in 1768. Mr. Curwen m. the dau. of William Gale, Esq. of Whitehaven, and had an only dau. and heiress,

ISABELLA CURWEN, who m. JOHN CHRISTIAN, Esq. of Ewanrigg Hall, and conveying to him the lands of the Curwens, he assumed, in 1790, their surname and arms, and thus became

JOHN-CHRISTIAN CURWEN, Esq. of Workington. Mr. Christian had been m. previously to Miss Taubman, of the Isle of Man, who left at her decease an only son, JOHN CHRISTIAN, Esq. of Ewanrigg Hall, one of the Dampsters of that island. (See family of CHRISTIAN.) By the heiress of the Curwens (his 2nd wife) he had issue,

HENRY, his heir.

DAUNT OF OWLPEN AND GORTIGRENANE.

DAUNT, MARY, of Owlpen, co. Gloucester, and Gortigrenane, co. Cork, m. in July, 1815, THOMAS-ANTHONY STOUGHTON, Esq. of Ballyhorgan, co. Kerry, and has issue,

I. THOMAS-ANTHONY.

II. Charles-William, (see STOUGHTON, of Ballyhorgan.)

Lineage.—Several writers on heraldry identify the name of DAUNT with that of DAUNTRE, which occurs on the roll of Battle Abbey.

From SIMON DAUNT, living in co. Gloucester, circiter A.D. 1380, the 3rd in descent,

JOHN DAUNT, m. Anne, dau. of Sir Robert Stawell, Knt. of Cotherton, co. Somerset, ancestor of the Lords Stawell of Somerton. Having espoused the Lancastrian side in the wars of the Roses, he was called on by Prince Edward, son of King HENRY VI, and Margaret of Anjou, to aid the House of Lancaster in resisting EDWARD IV. The following is a copy of the Prince's letter to John Daunt:—

"Trusty and well beloved, Wee greet yowe well; acquainting yowe that this day wee be arrived at Waymoth in safety, blessed be our Lorde, and at our landing wee have knowledge that the Kinge's great rebell Edward, Earl of March, our enemy, approacheth him in armes towards the Kinge's highness; which Edward wee propose, with God's grace, to encounter with all haste possible. Wherefore wee hartely pray yowe, and in the Kinge's name charge yowe, that yowe incontinent after the sighte heerof, come to us wheresoever wee be, with all such fellowship as yowe canne make in your most defensible aray, as our trust is that yowe will do.

"Written at Waymoth aforesaid, the xiii day of April," [1471.]

"Moreover wee will that yowe charge the Bayliffe of mér rân Párton, to make all the people there to come in their beste aray to us, in all haste, and that the said bayliffe bringe with him the rent for our Lady Day last past, and hee nor the tenants fayle not, as hee intends to have our favour.

"EDWARD.

"To our trusty and well beloved, John Daunt."

He was great-great-grandfather of THOMAS DAUNT, lord of the manor of Owlpen in 1608, who also acquired the lands of Tracton Abbey, co. Cork, by lease; and the estate of Gortigrenane, in the same county, by purchase, from Sir Warham St. Leger, in 1595. He m. DE LA CHEROIS OF DONAGHADEE.

DE LA CHEROIS, NICHOLAS, Esq. of Donaghadee, co. Down, J.P.

Lineage.—The family of De la Cherois descends from the younger branch of an ancient and noble house in France, formerly resident at Cheroz or Cherois, a small town near Sens, in the province of Champagne, whence the name is derived.

The revocation of the Edict of Nantes, in the year 1685 compelled the De la Cherois's, being Protestants, to emigrate from their native country.

In the year 1641,

CAPTAIN SAMUEL DE LA CHEROIS (ancestor of the branch of the family settled in Ireland) served in the war undertaken by Cardinal Richelieu against the House of Austria. He left three sons, NICHOLAS, appointed a lieutenant of fusiliers by Louis XIV. in 1675, and promoted to the rank of captain in 1677; Daniel, and Bourjonval, both appointed lieutenants in their brother's company in 1677. In the year 1685, these three brothers fled to Holland, where they were received with great kindness by the Stadtholder, into whose service they entered, obtaining commissions in the Dutch army of the same rank as those they had held in that of France. In 1689, WILLIAM, Prince of Orange, being called to the throne of Great Britain, formed two regiments of the French Huguenots, of which Nicholas De la Cherois was appointed major, Daniel captain, and Bourjonval lieutenant in the first, commanded by the Comte de Marton. They accompanied King WILLIAM to Ireland in 1690, and finally settled there. The eldest,

MAJOR NICHOLAS DE LA CHEROIS, distinguished himself at the battle of the Boyne, and afterwards performed a very gallant action, making fifteen hundred men lay down their arms with only a subaltern's guard, for which he was presented by the government with fifteen hundred crowns and a lieutenant-colonelcy. He m. Mary, dau. of Samuel Crommelin, and left a dau., Madelaine, wife of Daniel Crommelin, Esq. of Lisburn, and a son,

DE WINTON OF GLAMORGANSHIRE.

DE WINTON, WALTER-THOMPSON, Esq. of Clifton, co. Gloucester, s. his father 19 Nov. 1852.

Lineage.—Some ancient deeds relating to the lordships of Lanquian, Lamblythyan, and Landough, in the neighbourhood of Cowbridge, co. Glamorgan, which were held by the ancestors of this family under the names of DE WINTONA, DE WINCESTRIA, and WYLOOLYNA and WYLLYN, are still in the possession of the family, bearing date so far back as the year 1327, and others, which continue, through successive reigns, to establish the family under the appellation of Wilkins in the same neighbourhood, in the enjoyment of property of considerable extent, down to the year 1750.

ROBERT DE WINTONA, or WINCESTRIA, came into Glamorganshire with Robert Fitzhamon: he was lord of the manor of Lanquian, near Cowbridge, and built a castle there, the ruins of which are still extant; the valley underneath is called Pant Wilkyn (Wilkin's Vale) to this day. From Robert lineally descended Etymology.—The family of DISNEY, anciently written DE ISNEY and D'ISNEY, and deriving its patronymic from Isigny, a bourg near Bayeux, in Normandy, came into England at the Conquest, as attested by the different copies of the Battle Abbey Roll. Leland, in his Itinerary, p. 29, in enumerating the gentry of the Kesteven division of Lincolnshire, mentions "Disney, alias De Isney; he dwelleth at Disney, and of his name and line be gentlemen of Fraunce. Allesham Priory, by Thorney Courtoise, was of the Disneys' foundation, and there were divers of them buried, and likewise at Disney."

LAMBERT DE ISNEY, of Norton D'Isney, co. Lincoln, was ancestor of the DISNEYS of Norton D'Isney, a knightly race of high station and influence, intermarrying with the Lords Bardolph, Grey de Ruthyn, the Feltons, Nevils, Skipwiths, Ormesbys, Dives, Husseys, &c., many of their wives being heiresses. Twentieth in direct descent from this Lambert was

Mr. Dobbs is nephew and heir-at-law of the late Leonard Dobbs, Esq. of Armagh, a deputy-lieut. for the county, and for many years M.P. for his native city of Armagh.

Lineage.—The family of Dobbs is of very ancient standing in the north of Ireland, and was settled at Carrickfergus shortly after the Conquest, in the reign of HENRY II. In 1400 Peter Dobbs was constable of the castle of that town. Between the years 1571 and 1719 there were twenty of the name sheriffs of Carrickfergus, and between 1576 and 1724 there were nine of this family mayors. About the period of the Revolution, viz. in 1690, two brothers of this family removed to Armagh, viz. THOMAS DOBBS and ROBERT DOBBS. The younger brother, ROBERT DOBBS, settled at Ternesocoba, in the county of Armagh. He made his will 14 Jan. 1734-5, and it was proved in the diocesan court of Armagh, 23 July, 1735, in which year he died, leaving issue, six sons, James, Archibald, Henry, Robert, John, and LEONARD, and three daus., one m. Hugh Dobbin, a second m. Thomas Gillespie, and was grandmother of Leonard Gillespie, physician to the great Lord Nelson, and afterwards physician to the fleet, and a third, Jane, m. Thomas George. The youngest son,

LEONARD DOBBS, Esq. of Armagh, m. Mary, dau. of Thomas Oates, Esq., and niece of General Murray, so distinguished at the Siege of Derry (of the family of Murray of Philiphaugh), and had issue,

- i. THOMAS, his heir.

Lineage.—This is one of the original Anglo-Norman families in Ireland; and it appears, by ancient records, and other authorities, that the Dolphins have continued to reside in the immediate vicinity of their present seat, Turoe, for nearly six hundred years. To Thomas Dolphin, the son of John of Goulbully (which adjoins Turoe), were granted the customs of Galway, by letters-patent from EDWARD II., bearing date 4th May, 1307. The Dolphin family suffered much, in 1466, by the war between Mac William Bourke FitzRichard, &c., and Clanricarde. It is stated in the annals of Ireland, that Mac William Bourke FitzRichard, and his allies, laid waste the country as far as Loughrea, and on their return, entered the parishes of the Dolphins, burning and destroying everything that came within their reach, particularly about Tulluban, which then belonged to the Dolphin family.

In 1595, Redmond Dolphin, of Rathreddy, as chief of his name, entered, with other chieftains of Connaught, into a composition with Sir John Perrot, on the part of Queen ELIZABETH, for his property and that of other members of his family.

By an inquisition taken on the 16th September, 1617, it was found that the following members of the Dolphin family were seised in fee of their respective demesnes and other lands, viz.: Redmond Dolphin, of Rathreddy; James Dolphin, of Shanvallynamigardagh; William Reagh Dolphin, of Caberduff; Redmond Dolphin FitzPatrick, of Carinarged; Redmond-Oge Dolphin, of Bruckloonmore; William-Oge Dolphin, of Turoe, was seised in fee of Turoe and other lands; and Walter and Edmond were seised in fee of half portions, in Turoe. By letters-patent, dated at Dublin, 7th March, 1619, all the several lands above recited were granted to said several proprietors and to their heirs, to hold the same, as of his Majesty's castle of Athlone, by knight's service.

During the Civil Wars, the Dolphins, in common with most of the Roman Catholic families in Connaught, sustained great losses by confiscations and forfeitures, which caused many members of the family to emigrate; however,

DONELAN OF HILLSWOOD.

DONELAN, EDMOND-HYACINTH, Esq. of Hillswood, co. Galway, b. 14 Dec. 1804; m. 18 Feb. 1841, Maria-Teresa, only dau. of Denis Clarke, Esq. of Larch Hill, co. Galway.

Lineage.—This family, one of the most ancient in Ireland, derives from CAHAL (Charles), 2nd son of Morough Molathan, a celebrated prince of the House of Heremon, and King of Connaught, whose eldest son, Enragh, was progenitor of the O'CONORS-DON, which Cahal, at his father's death, in 701, had very large possessions in the counties of Roscommon and Galway, and was father of Arilgeal, King of Connaught, a descendant of whom, about 936, built a castle at Ballydonelan, called The Black Castle, part of which still remains. It was destroyed by fire, according to tradition, in the beginning of the 15th century, and in 1412, another castle was erected near the ruins by TULLY O'DONELAN, as appears by an inscription in the building. Lineally descended from this Tully was,

JOHN O'DONELAN, of Ballydonelan, son of Col. Melaghlin O'Donelan, wounded at the battle of Aughrim, the 5th in descent from Nehemias O'Donelan, styled Archbishop of Tuam, though never in holy orders. He m. Mary, dau. of Charles Daly, Esq. of Calla, and niece of the Right Hon. "I am of opinion that the petitioner has shewn sufficient evidence of his right to the dignity of Viscount of Baltinglass, in case the attainder of James, the 3rd viscount, created by the act of Queen ELIZABETH, were reversed."

Lineage.—The family of Eustace, of ancient Norman descent, was established in Ireland by one of the companions in arms of HENRY II, by whom he was appointed governor of the co. of Kildare. His descendant,

SIR ROWLAND EUSTACE, Knt. of Harristown, lord treasurer of Ireland, son of Sir Edward Eustace, Knt., lord deputy of Ireland to Richard, Duke of York, was created BARON PORTLESTER, in Meath, in 1454. He d. in 1496, and was s. by his nephew,

SIR THOMAS EUSTACE, Knt. of Harristown, created Baron of Kilcullen, co. Kildare, in 1541, and Viscount of Baltinglass, co. Wicklow, in 1542. His lordship made a settlement of all his estates upon the marriage of his son, SIR ROWLAND EUSTACE, 2nd viscount, with Joan, dau. of James, Lord Dunboyne. The elder son of this marriage, JAMES EUSTACE, 3rd Viscount Baltinglass, having rebelled against the authority of Queen ELIZABETH in 1553, by refusing to pay taxes unauthorized by the legislature, was attainted by an act of the parliament held in Ireland under the government of Sir John Perrott, in 1586, when the immense estates of the family were confiscated, and the title has since remained dormant. His lordship's brother, and eventual heir, the HON. WILLIAM EUSTACE (who had not been engaged in the rebellion), on the departure of Lord Baltinglass for Spain, retired with his family to England, and, in consequence of the edict of pardon and oblivion, published by King JAMES on his accession, together with the confirmatory acts of parliament of that and the subsequent reign, is recorded in the Herald's College, London, as living as Viscount Baltinglass, in 1610. His only son, by Margaret, his wife, dau. of Ashe, of Great Forenass, co. Kildare, ROWLAND EUSTACE, m. Elizabeth Bigland, a Yorkshire lady, dau. of Mary Strickland, of Sizergh, one of "the Maries" residing with Mary Stuart at the time of her execution. By her he had two sons, of whom the elder, James, died in early youth, of the plague. The younger, RICHARD EUSTACE, became representative of the family. He served as sovereign of Naas, and inherited the property of Ashe's Castle there, derived from his grandmother, Margaret Ashe. By Mary, his wife, dau. of Sir William Forster, he was great-grandfather of CHARLES EUSTACE, Esq. of Robertstown, co. Kildare, and of Corbally, Queen's County, a lieutenant-general in the army, and member in the Irish parliament, only son of JOHN EUSTACE, Esq. of Naas, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Robert Groydon, Esq. of Russellstown. FERGUSON OF CRAIGDARROCH AND ORROLAND.

FERGUSON, ROBERT CUTLAR, Esq. of Craigdarroch, co. Dumfries, and Orroland, Kirkcudbright, b. 26 July, 1855.

Lineage.—The Fergussons of Craigdarroch,

"A line that has struggled for freedom with Bruce,"

are of very ancient standing in the sheriffdom of Dumfries, and the name is familiar to all who are acquainted with the minute history of Scotland. A Fergusson of Craigdarroch was one of the first that signed the solemn league and covenant; another headed a small handful of men who defeated a portion of Cromwell's army at Glencairn, 1500 strong, in 1651; and a third fell at the battle of Kilmcrankie.

The old castle at Craigdarroch was burnt in a border foray, and with it most of the oldest records of the family. The oldest paper, now in the family possession, is a charter of confirmation, granted by John Crauford, of Balmakew, in Glencairn, of the lands of Jarbruch and Myne, to JONKINE FERGUSON, Lord of Craigdarroch, confirming a former charter granted by John Hutcheson, of Crawford, his cousin, and another charter granted by his son, John Crawford, of Dulgarnock, cousin to the said Jonkine Fergusson. The first-named charter is dated 1298, but the others have no date.

From the said Jonkine Fergusson to the present time, the descent can be traced uninterruptedly, from father to son.

From JOHN FERGUSON, of Craigdarroch, son and heir of Matthew Fergusson, of Craigdarroch, living in 1494, nearly derived

ALEXANDER FERGUSON, Esq. of Craigdarroch, chosen M.P. in 1717, who m. Anne, dau. of Sir Robert Laurie, of Maxwellton, and was direct ancestor of

RIGHT HON. ROBERT CUTLAR FERGUSON, Esq. of Craigdarroch, son of Alexander Fergusson, Esq. of Craigdarroch, a distinguished Scottish advocate, the hero of Burns' song of The Whistle. Mr. Cutlar Fergusson, who was b. in 1768, the representative of two very ancient houses, the Fergussons of Craigdarroch and the CUTLARS of Orroland, was called to the English bar in 1797, and for about twenty years practised with brilliant success at Calcutta. Returning to his native country, with a liberal fortune, and a distinguished name, he offered himself to the constituency of Kirkcudbright, and, after a very severe contest with Gen. Dunlop, was elected M.P. in 1826. He was distinguished by his exertions in the cause of Poland, for which a medal was struck in his honour. In 1834, he was appointed judge-advocate-general, and, at the same time, sworn of the Privy Council. He m. 17 May, 1822, Marie-Josephine Angé, and by her (who d. 1 Sept. 1858) had issue,

ROBERT CUTLAR, of whom presently.

FERRERS OF BADDESLEY CLINTON.

FERRERS, MARNION-EDWARD, Esq. of Baddesley Clinton, co. Warwick, J.P. and D.L., b. 13 Oct. 1813, senior co-heir of the Barony of Ferrers of Chartley, and representative of the only remaining male branch of the once potent house of Ferrers.

Lineage.—This ancient family, than which few can claim a higher or more illustrious descent, derives from Walchelin, a Norman, whose son, HENRY FERRERS, assumed the name from Ferrari, a small town of Gasconade, in France, otherwise called Ferrieres, from the iron mines with which that country abounded and, in allusion to the circumstance, he bore for his arms six horses' heads either from the similitude of his cognomen to the French ferrier, or because the seigneurie produced iron, so essential to the soldier and cavalier in those rude times, when war was esteemed the chief business of life, and the adroit management of the steel, even amongst the nobility, the first of accomplishments. Henry de Ferrers came into England with the Conquerors, and obtained a grant of Tutbury Castle, co. Stafford. His descendant,

THE HON. THOMAS FERRERS, sheriff of Staffordshire, 20 HENRY VI, 2nd son of William Ferrers, 5th Lord Ferrers of Groby, m. Elizabeth, eldest sister and co-heir of Sir Baldwin Freyke, and inherited, in her right, Tamworth Castle. Sir Thomas d. 27 HENRY VI, leaving issue,

THOMAS (Sir), 2nd Lord of Tamworth Castle, ancestor of the family of Ferrers of Tamworth Castle, the eventual heiress of which ANNE FERRERS, m. the Hon. Robert Shirley, eldest son of Robert, 1st Earl Ferrers, and 13th Lord Ferrers of Chartley, and had an only dau. and heiress, ELIZABETH SHIRLEY, BARONESS FERRERS, who m. James Compton, Earl of Northampton. Their only dau. and heiress, LADY CHARLOTTE COMPTON, BARONESS FERRERS and Compton, m. George, 1st Marquess Townshend, and had a son and successor, GEORGE, EARL of LEICESTER, who became 16th Baron Ferrers of Chartley. His heirship was created Earl of Leicester in 1784, and inherited the MARQUISATE of TOWNSHEND at the decease of his father, as second marquess. He m. Charlotte, dau. of Nelson Manswaring Ellerker, Esq. of Risby Park, and had George, 2nd Marquess Townshend, and 17th Baron Ferrers of Chartley, with several other children, one of whom, the Lady Harriet-Anne Townshend (eldest dau. and co-heir), m. EDWARD FERRERS, Esq. of BADDESLEY CLINTON.

HENRY (Sir), of whom we are more immediately about to treat.

The 2nd son,

Herbert-John, b. 22 Jan. 1860.

- II. Rose-Anne.

Lineage.—The family of Finch, from a branch of which the present representative is descended, is of considerable antiquity in the co. of Hertford, and appears to have been originally connected with the Finches of Kent and Sussex, the progenitors of the Earls of Winchilsea. It is rather uncertain when the family first settled in Herts, but we find it residing and possessing considerable property at Redbourne, Sundridge, and St. Albans, as early as 1400. About a century later we hear of the immediate ancestors of the present representative residing at Watford. The first of them of whom we treat is,

WILLIAM FINCH, Esq. of Watford, who m. Alice Franklyn, and by her (who had administration of his affairs granted to her in 1544, and who d. in 1556), had issue,

- I. John (Sir), Knt.

THE RIGHT HONOURABLE DUNCAN FORBES, 5th laird of Culloden, the celebrated Lord President of the Court of Session, a man whose lofty character and eminent, but unrequited services, at a crisis of great national difficulty and gloom, are recorded by a grateful country, in some of the fairest pages of her chequered history. Of this ever memorable man the poet Thomson thus speaks:

"Thee, Forbes, too, whom every worth attends,
As truth sincere, as weeping friendship kind;
Thee truly generous, and in silence great,
Thy country feels through her reviving arts,
Plann'd by thy wisdom, by thy soul inform'd;
And seldom has she known a friend like thee."

Duncan Forbes, who was b. at Bunchrew, one of the family seats near Inverness, 10 Nov. 1685, m. Mary, dau. of Hugh Rose, of the ancient family of Kilravock, in Nairnshire, and dying 10 Dec. 1747, was s. by his only child, JOHN FORBES, Esq. of Culloden, the intimate friend of Thomson, Armstrong, and other wits and literati of his day. He served with great distinction at the battles of Fontenoy and Culloden. At the former, his horse was shot under him. By economy and judicious management he succeeded in retrieving the fortunes of his family, which had received a severe and wellnigh fatal shock from the serious extent of his father the President's losses and advances in the cause of government during the rebellion of 1745-6, losses and advances never suitably acknowledged in the proper quarter, an ingratitude still the wonder and reproach of the age. He m. 1st, Jane, dau. of Sir Arthur Forbes, Bart. of Craigievar, by whom he had two sons, Duncan, who d. in youth, and ARTHUR, his heir; and 2ndly, in 1772, Jane, dau. of Captain Forbes, of New, by whom, (who m. afterwards, Grant, of Drumminner, Aberdeenshire) he had no issue. FULFORD OF FULFORD.

FULFORD, BALDWIN, Esq. of Fulford, co. Devon, J.P., s. his father in 1847.

Lineage.—The Fulfords are of Saxon origin, and held Folefort, as it is written in Domesday Book, from which place the name is derived. Here, as it appears by records, as well as registries in the College of Arms, they were seated in the time of RICHARD I., and have continued in possession of the same name, in the male line, by uninterrupted descent during a period of more than 600 years. The mansion of Fulford was garrisoned by CHARLES I., and was taken by a part of Fairfax's army under the command of Col. Okey, in Dec. 1645. Many knights of the family distinguished themselves in the Holy Land, Sir Baldwin de Fulford more particularly. Sir Thomas Fulford was one of the knights who went up with the Earl of Devon, and relieved Exeter when besieged by Perkin Warbeck, in 1497.

The first of the family, according to the records in the Heralds' Office, is

WILLIAM DE FULFORD, who held Fulford temp. RICHARD I.
and left a son,

NICHOLAS FULFORD, of Fulford, father of

WILLIAM FULFORD, of Fulford, who m. Mariot, dau and co-heir of Sir Baldwin de Belston, of Parham, Devon, and had.

GARDYNE OF MIDDLETON.

BRUCE-GARDYNE, THOMAS-MACPHERSON, Esq. of Middleton, co. Forfar, J.P., late of the 40th regt., b. 23 Feb. 1831; m. 6 April, 1858, Jane-Anne, dau. of Charles Willard, Esq., of Kingston, Canada, and has issue a son and heir, THOMAS, b. 2 Jan. 1859.

Lineage.—There are no records known to be in existence of the early history of this family. The first authentic document is a justiciary process in the 15th century, relating to a feud between the laird of Gardyne and the laird of Guthrie, the latter of whom was killed by the former. An account of Forfarshire, written by John Ochterlony, of Guynd, printed in the Spottiswood Miscellany, and supposed to be compiled somewhere about 1660 or 1670, calls them "Gairdyne of that ilk, a very ancient family, and chief of the name;" previous to that time the castle of Gardyne, and a great part of the barony, had passed out of their hands. The tradition of the family says it had been "wadset," to raise money for the government, in defence of the country. The GARDYNES, or GARDENS, of that ilk, the GARDYNES of Lawton, and the GARDYNES of Middleton, are all one and the same family.

DAVID GARDYNE, of Lawton, m. in 1603, Janet Lindsay, of Edzell, and had issue. He was s. by his son, Major Goddard is patron of the living of Pypard, the gift of the rectory and vicarage belonged to his family ever since it was situated from the Monastery of Lacock, in the King HENRY VIII.

LINCOLN.—The family of Goddard, of Winton, as it was anciently spelt, is of very great antiquity, derives its origin from a Saxon source, possessed in England previous to the Conquest, and is so Domesday. Subsequently to this, some of the family resided in Hants, and three Godards are recorded in Winton Domesday, as residing and possessing in temp. HENRY I. After this period, becoming numerous, the family appears to have separated, one branch having settled in the co. of Leicester and Norfolk King JOHN (recorded in Chancellor's Rolls, 2d King JOHN, 1202).

In 1233, Thomas Godard, son of Godard, held Middleton. co. Norfolk. In 31st of EDWARD III was levied on the lands of Nicholas Godard, of place. Lands were conveyed to Nicholas and Godard, 3rd of RICHARD II. About this time Godard was lord of Denver, having in the heirs family; his heir, Robert Godard, held a lordship pole, and was buried in Terrington Church, 1448. family was Sir John Godard, Governor of Lou Normandy, 6th HENRY V. (See Bloomfield's Norf.)

In the reign of King JOHN we gain the first information of the settlement of the Godard in Wilts.

WALTER GODARD-VILLE, or GODARD-VIL, who, purpose, appears to have added to his original name the Norman termination of ville (which his ants as readily discarded), held tenements and Chippenham and Albourn, co. Wilts. He was fath

The eldest son of John Gould, and Jane, his wife,

* This Sir Henry Gould, nephew of the first judge of the same name, entered the Middle Temple, 16 May, 1724, was called to the bar 13 June, 1734; made King's counsel 3 May, 1754, and was raised to the bench 1761, as Justice Baron of the Exchequer, but was removed to the Court of Common Pleas, 24 Jan. 1765, where he continued till his death in 1794, having seen the bench of this court three times during the vicissitudes of life. He retained his faculties to the last, and died at his house, in Lincoln's Inn Fields, at the advanced age of 64. He was distinguished by his extreme urbanity and mercurial disposition, as well as by his eminent abilities. In him the English law lost one of its brightest luminaries. His remains were interred at Stapleford Abbots, Essex, of which parish his brother William was the Rector. The following characteristic anecdote is recorded in the Gentleman's Magazine:—"During the riots of 1780, after the attack on Lord Mansfield's house, the King sent to offer each of the twelve judges the protection of a military guard, which offer Sir Henry Gould, with equal courage and equanimity, declined, saying, 'that he was persuaded, however some persons might be misled, the people in general loved and respected the law, and that he would rather die than sit under any other protection.'"

Mr. Lee Grattan-Guinness assumed, by royal license, in 1806, the additional surnames and arms of LEE and GRATTAN.

LINEAGE.—The Guinnesses of Beaumont, who have long ranked foremost amongst the merchants of the city of Dublin, paternally descend from the ancient and eminent family of Magennis, in which formerly vested the Viscounty of Lough (see BURKE'S Extinct Peerage). Several members of the Lough family lie interred in the churchyard of St. Catherine's, Dublin, and in the parish register, the transference of the name from Magennis to McGuinness or Guinness is clearly traceable. Maternally, the Guinnesses of Beaumont have an ancient and distinguished line of English ancestors, being sprung from the LEEs of Quarendon, raised to the British peerage in 1674, as Earls of Lichfield, the first who bore the name, as at present spelt, was

HOWARD GUINNESS, Esq. of Celbridge, in the co. of Kildare, & about the year 1680. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Wm. Wood, Esq. of Hutton Road, co. Kildare, and by her (who was & in 1698, and d. 28 Aug. 1742) had issue,

Mr. Guinness's 2nd son.

ARTHUR GUINNESS, Esq. of Beaumont, co. Dublin, J.P., and D.L., & 18 March, 1766, held for many years, honoured and respected by all classes of his fellow-citizens, the foremost place amongst the merchants of his native city of Dublin. His connection with the mercantile community extended over more than sixty years, and his public services during that long period may be estimated by the universal regret of the whole country at his decease. There was not a public institution, a public or private charity, to which he was not ever ready to devote his time, and to extend the hand of benevolence; and there was not a duty of life which he did not endeavour conscientiously and unobtrusively to perform. Mr. Guinness was for very many years president of the Dublin Chamber of Commerce, filled the office of Governor of the Bank of Ireland in 1830, and was Chairman of the Metropolitan Committee for the Reformation of the Corporation of Dublin, in 1850. He d. full of years and honours, on the 9th June, 1855, and was buried at Mount Jerome Cemetery, co. Dublin. His funeral—although his family declined a public one, in accordance with Mr. Guinness's own previously-expressed wish—was attended by a procession the most numerous and respectable ever witnessed in Dublin. The lord-mayor, several of the judges and the leading members of the bar, many dignitaries and professional men of eminence, were present, as well as all the principal merchants and heads of trading firms. Mr. Arthur Guinness m. Anna, eldest dau. and co-heiress of the late Benjamin Lee, Esq. of Merriem, co. Dublin, and had issue, himself de Vaux, which is the French for valley, and is synonymous with Gill. Robert de Vaux, son of Hubert, barbarously murdered Bueth Gille, and his posterity resided on the territory till it passed by marriage to the family of Thomas de Multon. In the reign of HENRY III it was conveyed to Ranulphus de Dacre, and the possessions remained in his family till the last heir male, Lord Dacre, of Gille's land, alienated it to the Duke of Norfolk. It is probable that the John Gille, whose inquis. post mortem was taken 44 Edw. III, at Greystock, in Cumberland, was the descendant of Bueth Gille, who held the Barony of Gille's land. He left issue, John Gille, son and heir.

The immediate ancestors of the family of Gyll, or Gille, of Herta, resided in Cambridgeshire, where we find Richard, son of John Gille, holding lands under Robert de Freville, of Shelford Parva, Cambridgeshire, temp. Edw. I, and Walter and Bateman Gille, of Foxton, near Royston, Cambridge, at the same time. (v. Rol. Hundredorum, temp. Edw. I.)

RICHARD GYLL, of Cambridgeshire, is cited in a deed of fine, Hilary, 1 RICHARD III, 1483, Westminster.

JOHN GYLL, the son of Richard, having married a lady of Buckland, migrated thither, and bought lands, messuages, &c., as appears by deeds, and his will, 1499. Members of the same family are found in Maurice Gyll, who d. Vicar of Shudy Campe, Cambridge, 1448; and Isabella Gyll, of Shepreth, in the same county, whose will is proved at Ely, 1485, by which she leaves to her dau. and heir, Rosa, m. to John Marshall, Esq., all her property.

JOHN GYLL, of Buckland, m. Johanna, probably dau. of Sir William Horne, Kt. of the same locality, as he says he obtained the lands he held there from him, and dying 23 Jan. 1499 (his will was proved 8 Feb. following), left issue,

- I. WILLIAM, his heir, who left issue a son, John, cited in the will of his grandfather, John, Andrew, had issue, two daus.
Margaret, m. to Thomas Veruceley, Esq. of Buckland, had five children.
Agnes, four daus.

II. RICHARD, of Buckland.

RICHARD GYLL, of Buckland, buys lands there by deed Hilary, 5 HENRY VII. He d., and was buried at Buckland, his wife, Elizabeth, administering to his effects, 5 July, 1535. He left issue, Richard, of Buckland, who d. in 1546, and left issue, with two daus., Margaret and Anne, a son, will proved 5 Oct. 1590, John. This John, had a son John, of Higham Ferrers, Northton, whose will was proved 1616, who left a son Philip, and John supposed to be father of the Gylls of Kettering, from whom descended Dr. Gyll, D.D., the Anabaptist and learned Hebraist, he d. 1771, leaving a son John, who d. 1804, s.p. Philip Gyll d. 1651, leaving Dr. Thomas Gyll, M.D., d. 1714, whose son Thomas d. 1719, s.p.

Leonari-Priest, of Jesus College, Cambridge. Will proved there 14 July, 1547. Buried at St. Edward's, Cambridge. A dau., m. William Cartwright, Esq. of Buckland; and two other children.

The eldest son of William,

JOHN GYLL, of Wyddial, Herts, held a patent place in the Petty-bag office. He m. Margaret, dau. and heir of George Canon, Esq. of Wyddial Hall, which he had purchased by deed, 15 HENRY VIII, Com. Plea office, and s. to all the estates of his father-in-law, by will proved 20 Oct. 1534. In addition to the property of George Canon, he made very large purchases in the counties of Herts, Essex, and Cambridgeshire; obtained the advowson of Wyddial, by deed 36 HENRY VIII, where he was interred. His will was proved, 25 Jan. 1547, and the inquisitio post mortem taken 15 March, 2 EDWARD VI. He left by his wife, Margaret (who remarried, in 1547, with John Wrengham, Esq. of Hodenhoe, co. Herts), with seven daus., five sons, GEORGE; Anthony; Richard, of Bottisham, co. Cambridge, d. in 1573, leaving a dau. and heir, m. to Michael Pigot, of Stratton, Beds; Francis, of Haydon, Essex, m. in 1560, Marcia, dau. and co-heir of Robert Aspland, of the same place, and d. in 1595, leaving issue; and Michael, of whom presently. The eldest son,

GEORGE GYLL, of Wyddial, also held the patent place in the Petty-bag office; and made large purchases of lands, &c. in the county of Herts. He m. 1st, Gertrude, dau. and co-heir of Sir John Peryent, Knt. of Digswell, Herts, auditor of the Court of Wards and Liveries, by Dorothy, his wife, dau. and heir of Sir John Tendering, Knt. of Badow, Essex, and had by her,

a Hannay (whose name occurs in Wood's Athenæ)
 Dean of Edinburgh, who read Lauder's celebrated will in 1637. Sir Robert Hannay, of Mochrum, Knight, was created a Baronet by CHARLES I, in 1630, and died in 1687, leaving a dau., Jane, who m. 1st, Coote, of Duntrath; and 2ndly, Sir Robert Reading, transferring blood through both alliances to very great families in Abercorn. Patrick Hannay, member for parliament which signed the Solemn League was a colonel of horse during the same troublous times. Sir Patrick Hannay had been Clerk of the Privy Council in Ireland just before.

"The lands of Sorbie," says the learned herald—the standard genealogist of Scotland—Nisbet, "are now possessed by others, but the family is at present represented by Mr. Robert Hannay, of Kingsmuir."

This ROBERT HANNAY, who possessed Kingsmuir, co. Fl'a, in 1700, had obtained it by marrying a Livingstone, widow of Colonel Borthwick. Leaving no issue, he was a by his sister.

ANN HANNAY, of Kingsmuir. This lady (who was m. to Captain Erskine, of Dun, but was also childless) disposed of the estate, by will, to her friend and kinsman, History of Grennan.

A minor branch of the Hannays—and the name, we may suppose, was a purely Gaelic one (never occurring, except in Scotland)—was early settled at Grennan, in Wigtownshire. Originally, they were possessed of Stancher, Sengabreckan, the Gass, and other properties stretching towards Ayrshire; but Grennan, the land from which they took their designation, was also the land which they possessed, down to our own time. The early Grennan titles are some of them lost, and some illegible, but there exist enough (in the possession of Dr John McTear, to whom the land belongs) to furnish us with the following list. Hugh Hannay, of Grennan, succeeded to a predecessor, in 1612; Hugh Hannay, of Grennan, in 1642; and Thomas Hannay, of Grennan, in 1648. This branch was of the strongest covenanting type, and “John Hannay of Grennan” is mentioned by Wodrow as fined for non-conformity in 1682. We next come to John Hannay, of Grennan, who m. in 1683, Janet Baillie; John Hannay, of Grennan, who m. in 1709, Joanna Wallace; and John Hannay, of Grennan, who m. in 1737, Mary Ross, of Carbrock, one of the families from whom the great navigators derive. Here the direct line ended in co-heiresses, one of whom m. a nobleman, and was mother, 1 of the late distinguished Dr. Alexander Hannay, a physician of Glasgow, who m. a dau. of Mr. Hannay, of Blairinnie, to be mentioned presently, and left issue; 2 of Robert Hannay, Esq. East India merchant.

An offshoot of the Breman branch springing from a marriage in CHARLES II's time with a McCulloch, of Myreton, was settled before the end of that century at Kneet and Gurrrie, in Wigtownshire—farms belonging to their kinsmen, the Maxwells, bar nets of Monreith, who had married into the McCulloch family about the same time. The ancient branch of the Maxwells were earnest covenanters also, and offered the lands in question on what were of old called "kindly" terms in Scotland—"as long as wind blew and water ran"—to their Hannay relatives. Of these,

JOHN HANNAY, Knock and Garrarie, is in 17th Jan'y, dau. of Mr. Patrick Dickson, of a stock which occurs as sufferers in the cause of the covenant, and had,

1. JOHN HANNAY, Knock and Garrarie, who m. his cousin Grizel Dickson. From him descended (among others) Peter Hannay, Baldow, a well-known agriculturist of the last century; the Hannays settled at Barwhirran; the late J. Hannay, Esq. of Malabay; also, Alexander Hannay, Esq. now Banker at Dumfries; and Elliott Hannay, Esq. of the War Office.

HERBERT, RIGHT HON. HENRY-ARTHUR, of Muckruss, co. Kerry, M.P. for that county, m. Mary, dau. of the late James Balfour, Esq. of Whittinghame, East Lothian, by Lady Eleanor, his wife, dau. of James Maitland, 8th Earl of Lauderdale, and has issue,

- I. HENRY-ARTHUR.
- II. Charles.
- I. Louisa.

Lineage.—The name of Herbert (her-Gert, illustrious Lord) stands so prominent upon the records of British history, and has been ennobled, at various times, in so many of its branches, and by so many ancient and renewed creations, that it has become a matter of as much interest as difficulty, in the present day, to ascertain the legitimate and chief stem of this long descended family.

Since the merging of the elder branch in the family of CLIVE, by the marriage of the heiress of the last Herbert, Earl of Powis, with the son of the celebrated General Lord Clive, the chieftainship of the name seems indubitably to rest with Herbert of Muckruss, in the county of Kerry, descended from Thomas Herbert, of Kilcuagh, who went to Ireland under the care and patronage of his relative Lord Herbert, of Cherbury and Castle Island, A.D. 1656; which Thomas was the son of Mathew, the son of Sir John, the son of Sir William, the son of Sir Mathew, of Colebrooke, the lineal descendant from the eldest son of Sir Richard Herbert, of Colebrooke, only brother of the Earl of Pembroke, of the first creation. These brothers, (as may be read in the pages of Speed and Hollinshed), suffered as Yorkists in the wars of the Roses. The heir general of the Earl of Pembroke married into the family of Somerset, Earl and Marquess of Worcester, and Duke of Beaufort. From Sir Richard descended, in the younger branches, the Lords Herbert, of Cherbury, after Earls of Powis, and Herbert, Earl of Torrington, both extinct in the male line, while from a senior, but never ennobled branch, the family of Muckruss and Kilcuagh, now remains the existing and legitimate male representative of this long-descended house.

HUNTER OF THAT ILK.

HUNTER, ROBERT, Esq. of Hunter, or Hunterston House and Castle, co. Ayr, J.P. and D.L., b. 1 Oct. 1800; m. 23 Nov. 1836, Christian-Macknight, eldest dau. of William Craufurd, Esq. of Cartburn, co. Renfrew, and has issue,

I. Jane.

II. Eleanora.

Lineage.—Two ancient families of the name of HUNTER existed in Scotland for many centuries—HUNTER, of Polmood, in Tweeddale, now extinct, and HUNTER, of Hunter, the present chief of the Hunters.

The patriarch of the race was one of the companions in arms of WILLIAM the Conqueror.

Of the Hunterston line, Craufurd states that he had "very carefully perused their writs," and that "from charters they appear to have had at least a part of the estate they still possess in Cunninghame, while the Morvilles were lords of that country, as far back as the reign of ALEXANDER II." In the remarks on the Rag. Roll, it is stated, that in an ancient bounding charter, the lands of Arnele-Hunter, adjoining to Hunterston, are bounded with "terris NORMANI VENATORIS."

NORMAN HUNTER, living between the years 1215 and 1249, is the first ancestor mentioned in any deed. The Hunterston estate has been in the possession of the family for more than eight hundred years, though only entailed by the father of the present proprietor.

ROBERT HUNTER, of Hunterston, chief of this ancient house in the 17th century, was served heir of conquest to his younger brother, the Rev. Henry Hunter, in 1674. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of William Craufurd, of Auchinames, by Anna, his wife, dau. of Sir Coll Lamont, of Ineryne, and had four sons, viz.,

I. PATRICK, his heir.

II. Robert, who acquired, by purchase, in 1686, the lands of Kirkland, in the vicinity of Kilbride, Ayrshire. He m. in 1675, Margaret, dau. of John Hamilton, of Grange, in Ayrshire, and left a son and successor,

1 ROBERT HUNTER, of Kirkland, who purchased a part of the lands of Drumelling, adjacent to his own. He m. Margaret, dau. of Baillie Munro, of Irvine, and left (with two daus., Margaret, wife of William Cunninghame, of Monktonhill; and Elizabeth, of John Boyd, of Carlung) a son and heir,

GEORGE HUNTER, Esq. of Kirkland, who m. 1st, his cousin, Dorothea, dau. of John Boyd, of Carlung, and had (with several other children, who d. young) a son, ROBERT, his heir. He m. 2ndly, Mary, dau. of Cunninghame, of Monkton Hill, and had a dau., Dorothea. His son, ROBERT HUNTER, Esq. of Kirkland, m. in 1791, Jane Boyd-Cunninghame, eldest dau. of John Boyd, of Carlung, and by her (who d. 24 March, 1825) had issue, GEORGE, Robert, Jane, and Marion, m. 1 Feb. 1825, to John Woodrop, Esq. of Dalmarnoch.

III. Hugh, a physician at Kilmarnock.

IV. James, who was bred to the bar. He m. Margaret Spalding, and was father of GENERAL ROBERT HUNTER, who d. governor of Jamaica, in 1734. He m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Sir Thomas Orby, of Burton Pedwardine, co. Lincoln, Bart., and relict of Lord John Hay, second son of John, second Marquis of Tweeddale. By this lady, General Hunter was ancestor of the ORBY-HUNTERS, of Croyland Abbey, co. Lincoln.

Robert Hunter was s. by his eldest son,

PATRICK HUNTER, of Hunterston, whose retour is dated 19 Jan. 1680. He m. Marion, dau. of John Cunninghame, chant in London; CHARLES, of whom presently; Patrick, a planter in Jamaica; Thomas, who purchased the estate of Glencarse; and Alexander, a merchant in London. The 2nd son,

CHARLES HUNTER, Esq., m. 22 Aug. 1751, his cousin Agnes, eldest dau. of Robert Hunter, Esq. of Ballo, and had (with three daus., Janet; Catherine; and Margaret, m. to Robert Blair) an only surviving son,

JAMES HUNTER, Esq. of Seaside, b. in 1757, who m. in Feb. 1778, Elizabeth, dau. of Patrick Crow, Esq. of Hillside of Logie, and had issue,

CHARLES, his heir.

Patrick, lieut. in the E.I.C.'s service, d. at Bombay, in 1804, from a wound received at Assaye.

HURLY OF CO. KERRY.

ROBERT-CONWAY, Esq. of Tralee, co. Kerry, b. June, 1815; m. 1st, 27 May, 1845, Dorcas, dau. of the late Arthur Blennerhassett, Esq. of Tralee, co. Kerry, and 2ndly, 1860, Annie, eldest daughter of Comins, Esq. of Whitheridge, co. Devon.

2.—The Milesian sept of HURLY, or, more properly, O'HURLY, is descended from a common ancestor, the O'Briens of Thomond, namely, Cas, seventh son of OILLOLL OLUM, King of Munster. O'Flaherty, "Iris," says, the O'Hurlys are of the Dalcaisian sept, the tribe of Hy Bloid, who possessed the territory of Triocha Hy Bloid, which comprised a great number of baronies of Lower Ormond and Ownay, in the Hurlys were at one time one of the most powerful families in Munster, as is attested by the numerous ruins which still remain of fortresses and religious edifices erected by them in former times throughout the counties of Limerick, Clare, Cork, and Tipperary; but, included in Desmond's attainder, and faithful to the house of Stuart, even in its despair, they were ruined by their fidelity, and the vast and ancient estates of the various members of the family having been wrested from them by a succession of confiscations, and they themselves scattered, only one branch which diverged from the parent stock, and settled, several generations back, in Kerry, now remains to represent this once powerful sept. Druim Dabhair, in the county of Limerick, now Knocklong, where the family is placed by Ortelius in his map of Ireland, was the principal residence of the chief. He was designated chief of Brennan Bawn, the clan being called after their progenitor, Brennan the fair, brother to Fionn, the ancestor of the O'Briens, and both sons of Cas. At Knocklong are still to be seen the ruins of a castle of considerable strength. Camden, in his "Britannia," says, "Of great note and name above the rest in this tract, Limerick, besides the Bourkes and Fitzgeralds, are the De Laceys and Brownes of English, also the O'Briens, O'Hurlys, and Macmahons, of Irish breed." According to Bruodin's "History of Ireland," the illustrious families of the county of Limerick were O'Brien, O'Hurley, De Burgo, and the house of Desmond.

THOMAS HURLY, of Knocklong, represented the borough of Kilmallock in 1585, and during the greater part of ELIZABETH's reign, and was succeeded by his son,

MAURICE HURLY, who m. 1st, Gursell Hogan; and 2ndly, Grace Thornton. By his first wife, he had a son, John, and

SIR THOMAS HURLY, Bart., who m. Joan, 2nd dau. of John Browne, of Knockmanihy and Camus, commonly called the Master of Awey, by Catherine O'Ryan, dau. of Master Dermot O'Ryan, called Master, for being Master of the Rolls in Ireland, and by her he had two sons, Maurice and John, and four daughters, of whom Catherine m. Lord Dunboyne, and Ellinor m. David Barry Rathanskil. He was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR MAURICE HURLY, who, by his wife, Catherine, the dau. of O'Dyer, had two sons, William and John, and one dau., Lettice. He forfeited his great and ancient estates in Limerick in 1641, and being removed by CROMWELL, according to a favourite expression of his, to Connaught, or to hell, to the county of Galway, he d. at his mansion of Doone in 1683, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM HURLY, Bart., who represented the borough of Kilmallock in 1689, and being zealously attached to the interests of King JAMES II, he forfeited the estates granted to his father in Galway by CROMWELL. He m. Mary, dau. of Colonel Blount, and by her had one son,

SIR JOHN HURLY, Bart., who, whilst a minor, by Bryan Mac O'Brien, his guardian, as son and heir of Sir Wm. Hurly, Bart., laid claim to the estate of Meinalibeg, Shanballytyne, and Corlack, in fee tail special after the death of claimant's mother, Dame Mary O'Brien, alias Hurly, in virtue of marriage articles dated 19 June, 1682, and witnessed by James, Lord Dunboyne, Thomas Butler, and John Hurly (List of Claims as they were entered with the trustees at Chichester House, in Dublin, on or before August 10th, A.D. 1700—No. 931). This claim was not allowed, and Sir John Hurly was arrested in Dublin about the year 1714, for raising men for the Pretender, but made his escape to France and was never more heard of.

JOHN HURLY, 2nd son of Sir Thomas, had issue, John, the father of Colonel John Hurly, and three daus. Grace Hurly, eldest dau., m. Capt. John Purdon, of Tallagh, co. Limerick; Anne Hurly, 2nd dau., m. John Bourke, Esq. of Cahermoyhill; Ellinor Hurly, 3rd dau., m. John de Lacey, Esq. of Ballenlughana.

DENNIS HURLY, Esq. of Knocklong, co. Limerick, descended from John, only brother to Sir Thomas Hurly, first Bart., m. 1701, Anne, 5th dau. of Robert Blennerhassett, 2nd son of John Blennerhassett, of Ballysoddy, co. Kerry, and Avise Conway, 2nd dau. and co-heiress of Edmund Conway, of Castle Conway, Killorglin, and by her had issue five sons, THOMAS, Charles, John, Dennis, and William. The three last d. young,

THOMAS HURLY, the eldest son, m. Alice, dau. of his uncle, Thomas Blennerhassett, by Jane Darby, and by her had issue three daus. Anne Hurly, eldest dau., d. unm.; Alice Hurly, 2nd dau., m. Arthur Browne, Esq. of Ventry; Jane Hurly, 3rd dau., m. John Mason, Esq. of Ballydowney. Thomas Hurly was succeeded by his brother,

CHARLES HURLY, who m. Alice Fitzgerald, sole dau. and heiress of Edmond Fitzgerald of Morrirogane, and by her

JOHNSTONE OF ALVA.

JOHNSTONE, JAMES, Esq. of Alva, co. Clackmannan, and of Hangingshaw, co. Selkirk, b. 4 July, 1801, D.L. of the cos. of Clackmannan, Stirling, and Selkirk, M.P. for the cos. of Clackmannan and Kinross; m. 9 Jan. 1846, the Hon. Augusta-Anne Norton, dau. of the Hon. Baron Norton, of Grantley, and sister of Lord Grantley, by whom (who d. 21 July, 1859) he has issue,

- I. JOHN-AUGUSTUS-JAMES, b. 3 May, 1847.
- I. Caroline-Elizabeth-Mary.

Lineage.—HUGO DE JOHNSTONE was proprietor of lands in East Lothian in the reign of ALEXANDER II., King of Scotland. JOHN DE JOHNSTONE his son was one of the Barons who swore fealty to EDWARD I., in 1296. His great grandson, SIR JOHN DE JOHNSTONE was a man of great eminence in the reign of ROBERT II., and was Warden of the West Marches in 1378. His grandson, SIR ADAM JOHNSTONE, of Johnstone, was a distinguished commander under the Earl of Douglas, at the battle of Sark, in 1448. The JOHNSTONES of Westerhall, are descended from MATTHEW JOHNSTONE, son of Sir Adam Johnstone, who d. 1455, by his 2nd wife, Lady Janet Dunbar,* dau. of George, 10th Earl of March, and widow of Lord Seton. From Sir Adam's son, by his first marriage, descended the MARQUESSSES OF ANNANDALE.

On the death of George, 3rd Marquess of Annandale, in 1792, the Baronet of Westerhall became head of the family of Johnstone, and claimant of the dormant marquessate. This claim is still before the House of Lords.

Matthew Johnstone d. in 1491, and from him descended a long line of Knights of Westerhall, who intermarried with the families of Douglas, Earl of Angus, Somerville of Camnethan, Oliphant, Lord Oliphant, Scott of Harden, Bannatyne of Corehouse.

SIR WILLIAM JOHNSTONE, 2nd baronet of Westerhall, who d. in 1728, had by his wife, Henrietta Johnstone, of Warriston, two sons, JAMES, his heir; and John, a colonel in the army, who d. in 1743, and by his wife Charlotte, Dowager Marchioness of Annandale (mother of the late marquess), dau. and heiress of John-Vanden Bempdè, had issue, a son, who, in 1792, inherited the great Vanden-Bempdè fortune of his half-brother, the marquess, was created a Baronet, and was father of Sir John-V.-B. Johnstone, Bart. of Blackness. Sir William was s. by his eldest son,

SIR JAMES JOHNSTONE, 3rd baronet of Westerhall, who m. the Hon. Barbara Murray, dau. of Alexander, 4th Lord Elibank, descended from the Houses of Valois and Plantagenet, through King JAMES II. and Mary of Gueldres, by whom he had,

JAMES (Sir), 4th baronet.

WILLIAM (Sir), 5th baronet.

George, who carried on the line of the family, and was father of SIR JOHN, 6th baronet.

* The maternal descent of the Johnstones of Westerhall was much more illustrious than that of the Johnstones of Johnstone. Their ancestress, Lady Janet Dunbar, was immediately descended from the blood royal of Scotland. Her grandfather, Patrick, 9th Earl of March, and her grandmother, Lady Agnes Randolph, were both immediately descended from the Scottish and Anglo-Saxon kings through ROBERT BRUCE, the competitor for the crown of Scotland.

JOHN, of whom hereafter, as ancestor to the Alva branch. Barbara, wife of Charles, 6th Lord Kinnauld, mother of the 7th lord.

Margaret, wife of David, Lord Ogilvie, mother of David, Earl of Airlie, and of Lady Margaret, wife of Sir John Wedderburn, Bart. of Ballendean.

Charlotte, wife of J. Balmain, and maternal grandmother to Lord Grantley, and to the Hon. Mrs. Johnstone, of Alva.

Sir James Johnstone d. 1772, and was s. by his eldest son, Sir James, who, dying unm., was s. by his brother, Sir William, 5th bart. of Westerhall. He was for many years a distinguished member of parliament, and acquired an immense fortune by his wife, Frances Pulteney, dau. and heir of Daniel Pulteney, cousin and heir of the Earl of Bath. Sir William assumed the surname of Pulteney. He had an only child, Henrietta-Laura Johnstone-Pulteney, created Countess of Bath, and d. in 1808, without issue by her husband, General Sir James Murray, Bart. Sir William Johnstone-Pulteney having no male issue, was s. in the Johnstone title, estates, and claim to the Annandale marquessate, by his nephew, Sir JOHN-LOWTHER JOHNSTONE, 6th baronet, grandfather of the present Sir Frederick, 8th baronet of Westerhall.

The 4th son of Sir James Johnstone and the Hon. Barbara Murray was

JOHN JOHNSTONE, b. 28 April, 1734, who held important appointments in India in the service of the East India Company. He commanded the artillery at the battle of Plassey in 1757, and by his skilful management, contributed to that victory. He m. Elizabeth-Caroline, dau. of Colonel Keene, and niece to Dr. Keene, bishop of Ely, and Sir Benjamin Keene, British minister at the Court of Spain. He purchased the estates of Alva, Hangingshaw, Denovan, and others, in Scotland, and was for some years in parliament. He d. at Alva, in Dec. 1795, and left, with a dau., Elizabeth, wife of James Gordon, of Craig, an only son and successor,

JOHNSTONE OF GALABANK.

JOHNSTONE, EDWARD, Esq., barrister-at-law, the Inner Temple, b. 9 April, 1804.

Lineage.—JOHN JOHNSTONE, of Mylnesfield, had with his ancestors, the Johnstones of Newby, enjoyed the barony of Mylnesfield, which he held, probably, from the Barons Johnstone, under whose family he served in the military expeditions to which they were frequently called out in those hostile times. King JAMES was hardly seated on the throne of England, when the Laird of Mylnesfield felt the rod of oppression, which was then heavily laid upon the necks of the vassals to the Scots lords. He was called upon to produce the writings by which he held his lands; he gave the same answer which the Scots barons had formerly given to ROBERT BRUCE, when the King for better reasons made the same demand. John of Mylnesfield answered, he held them by his sword; but that title having now lost its usual value and importance, he was compelled to surrender his lands to the Lord Johnstone, his chief and superior. Agnes, a sister of John, was m. to Charles Murray, whose younger brother, Sir James Murray, of Cockpool, was made Earl of Annandale, by patent, dated at Whitehall, 13 March, 1624. In 1625, John Johnstone purchased of John Galloway, in Annan, the lands of Galabank. His son and successor,

GEORGE JOHNSTONE, m. Agnes Graham, of Dumfries, and had a very considerable sum of money settled upon him, which shews that John of Mylnesfield was for the times a man of opulence. His only son, JOHN JOHNSTONE, of Galabank, m. in 1676, Janet, dau. of Thomas Kirkpatrick, of Auldgrith, and had issue, John of Galabank, whose only dau. and heiress, Janet, m. to — Beatty, of Millican. The 2nd son,

III. Henry, m. 10 Aug. 1854, Elizabeth-Rebecca, dau. of William Taylor, Esq. of Humberston Lodge, co. Leicester.

IV. John-Morrall.

I. Emily.

Lineage.—This very ancient family, descended, in direct paternal line, through EDNOWAIN BENDEW, one of the Fifteen Noble Tribes of North Wales, from Gwaithvoed, Lord of Cardigan and Gwent, A.D. 921, and the Pendragons and kings of the Britons, was allied, throughout many ages, with some of the most ancient houses in Wales and Shropshire.

ROBERT AP IORWARTH AP BIRID AP IORWARTH AP MADOC AP EDNOWAIN BENDEW lived in 1339; his brother Gwyn, in 1313 (witness to deed). Ithel Vychan ap Kenrick, grandson of Robert, m. Angharad, dau. and heiress of Robert ap Howel, of Holt (of the great house of Gwydir). The Anglicised name of Jones (originally "ap John" and "Jones de Chilton," in the visitation of Shropshire, 1623) was first borne by his great-grandson, Richard, 6th son of John, son of Kenrick, 3rd son of Ithel Vychan. Richard, son of William, son of Richard, was of Chilton, near Shrewsbury, which remained a family seat for several centuries (till 1815). The heads of the Llanerchrugog family, in four successive generations, m. dau. of the neighbouring houses of Llwynon, Eyton of Eyton, and Watstay (since called Wynnstay, on being left to Sir John Wynn, ancestor of Sir W.-W. Wynn), Erthig of Erthig, and Trevor of Trevor. Llanerchrugog Hall has been a seat of the family from time immemorial—at least two generations before 1459. The present Mr. Jones is the fourteenth in succession from "Dio of Llanerchrugog." Old Marton Hall is also a very ancient mansion. In one of the rooms there is a dais for the seat of the head of the house. The black lion of the princes of Powys appears, as the Old Marton arms, in a very ancient Old Marton pedigree painted on vellum in the possession of the family.

RICHARD JONES, Esq., b. 1711 (son of John Jones, who was b. 1667, and d. 1731); m. Margaret, eldest dau. of Richard Higgons, Esq. of The Leasowes, co. Salop (descended from the very ancient Shropshire families of Higgons, or Hugons, Maddocks, Wycherley, &c.), and sister of William Higgons, Esq. of Llanerchrugog, who, by Mary, his wife, widow of William Pennant, Esq. and dau. and heir of John Payne, Esq., had an only child, Elizabeth Higgons, who d. unm. 19 April, 1811. The son and heir of Richard Jones and Margaret Higgons his wife,

WILLIAM JONES, Esq. of Llanerchrugog Hall and Old Marton Hall, b. 5 May, 1752; m. Georgiana, dau. and heir of Thomas Wood, Esq. of Goodnestone, Kent, by Rebecca, his wife, dau. of the Rev. Mr. Howley, and aunt of William Howley, D.D., Archbishop of Canterbury. By this lady (who was b. 4 Aug. 1757, and d. 19 Sept. 1823) he had three dau., Rebecca, d. unm. 1828; Charlotte; and Lucretia, d. unm. 1828; and one son, the present THOMAS JONES, Esq. of Llanerchrugog Hall.
